Build a strong research and innovation for water
WssTP Stakeholder event - 1 June 2010

An i-economy for tomorrow?

The inclusion of innovation in the title of the DG Research, Innovation and Science, has brought a clear stronger focus on building an economy based on innovation, market driven and technology initiatives and policies.

Shape the future of research

As the European Water Platform, the WssTP is as a key player promoting research and technology in the water sector. We have delivered a common vision for water focusing on technology developments and needs in a short and long term agenda. One of the missions of the platform is to shape the future priorities for research and innovation, including promoting research in the political agenda and the allocation of RTD budget of the European Commission.

Give your views

The Stakeholders event is therefore a key opportunity to discuss and agree the potential next steps needed to shape research needs and priorities including the key existing and new funding schemes such as FP7, JPI, Regional funds, others.
